

Meeting Instructional Needs of Students

When developing instructional strategies and educational programs, administrators and teachers within Ashland Elementary School will consider the diversity of students' talents, interests and developmental levels. All instruction will reflect the acknowledgement of diversity and respect for differences.

The instructional program will include:

- procedures for diagnosing learner needs;
- methods and strategies for teaching that incorporate learner needs;
- techniques for the evaluation of student outcomes;
- the provision of remedial instruction, as needed.

The instructional program will incorporate community resources wherever possible.
